LYRASIS Partners With Indiana State Library for Online Courses Statewide

Atlanta, GA, September 28, 2009 – LYRASIS announces a new partnership with the Indiana State Library to provide LYRASIS live online classes to library and information professionals across the state. The Indiana State Library purchased course units from LYRASIS to be offered to the state's libraries at no cost.

“We welcome Indiana librarians and library workers to live online classes, an economical and highly effective way to learn new skills and tools. With the live online platform, there's no need to travel away from the library; participants decide how, when, and where they want to learn,” said Heather Dray, LYRASIS Director of Member Services.

LYRASIS distance education courses are taught by professional instructors on a wide range of current library topics, including: Metadata and Cataloging; Digitization and Preservation; Technology Trends and Applications; Reference and Resource Sharing; and many more.

To view all LYRASIS classes, please visit <http://www.lyrasis.org/Classes-and-Events.aspx>.

About LYRASIS

A regional membership organization for libraries and information professionals, LYRASIS facilitates their success today and tomorrow by providing access to shared knowledge and expertise, innovative products and services, and customized solutions to serve their communities effectively and, by working together, advance the profession. LYRASIS is the new organization resulting from the merger of PALINET and SOLINET, and currently serves nearly a third of the U.S., including 16 states east of the Mississippi, plus Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. For more information, please visit www.lyrasis.org.
